It's all about Stories

Stories play a vital role in the growth and development of children. The books they read and the characters they get to know can become like friends. It encourages the children to realize that they are natural-born storytellers and can imagine anything they want.

Reading stories and telling the stories to your child is very important as it helps him/her know sounds, words, develop language skills and enhance vocabulary. Reading aloud with your child is an important part of their education. It teaches them to speak fluently; they listen carefully and develop the ability to read themselves.

✓ Here are some tips for you:

- Show them the cover of the storybook before reading the story. It will create the curiosity and interest in children.
- Test your child's interest and progress while reading the story by asking them the questions.
- Check newly acquired skills as stories contain vocabulary whenever the new word pop up ask them to guess the meaning by using picture clues.
- Make it engaging by integrating it to the surroundings, make some crafts, use objects, use different sounds/ voices and use creative story puppets.
- Get feedback from your child at the end of the story. Ask your child what they enjoyed or disliked about the story. Asking questions will improve their oral fluency.
- Talk about the story with your child in whatever language and expressive expressions you feel most comfortable. You can talk about the pictures in the story too.

These tips will engage your child with reading. It will encourage them to form opinions and give them the confidence to express their preferences more. We would like to hear wonderful stories from each and every student after a long vacation which will help all the lovely students to boost their confidence.
